Scaled at 1" equals 20 miles (1 cm = 12.5 km), the enclosed "view maps" detail the heart of Eriador (S. "Empty Land"). They depict all of old Arnor (S. "Royal Land" or simply "Kingdom"). Lake Evendim and the rest of the heartland of Arthedain (Q. "Realm of the Edain") lie in the northwestern segment. The Old Forest (S. "Taur Iaur"), Barrow-downs (S. "Tyrn Gorthad"), and the northern part of Cardolan (S. "Red-hill Land") occupy the central segment. The Trollshaws (S. "Pinnath Tereg") and Ettenmoors are situated in the eastern segment, while Eregion, the West-gate of Moria (Kh. "Khazad-dûm"), Enechwaith (S. "[Place of the] Middle-folk"), and the mouth of River Isen (Angren) all appear in the southeastern segment. The Black Woods (S. "Eryn Vorn") lie in the southern segment, as do the southernmost tip of the Blue Mountains and Minhiriath (S. "[Region] Between the Rivers").

Note that, with a few exceptions (e.g., sites in the Shire, Dunland, or Rohan), all of the map labels are rendered in Elvish. Most appear in Grey-elvish, or Sindarin. Some sites in Lindon, however, bear Quenya labels.
