

New Frontiers Laboratories

Jake McGee

Jake works in room 508. He is a young and upcoming scientist and is working on a few great ideas.

He brought his friend Angie along to show her his new project. He hopes that by impressing her, she will feel the same way about him as he does about her. In his nervousness he dropped some vials. He phoned for a janitor to help clean the green goo on the floor.

Angie Bornn

Angie is a friendly and outgoing gamer girl and she has earned her nickname "Terror babe" many times over.

Even though she knows how Jake feels about her, she will never have feelings for him. He is fun to have around and a good friend. Angie was excited to see the labs, but so far it has been pretty boring. Now Jake made a disgusting mess and they are stuck here until the janitor arrives.

Rubin Jackson

Rubin has been with the company for years as a janitor and he has seen many weird and interesting things. He still has occasional nightmares from all the things he had to clean up during the teleportation experiments of '83. He takes it all in his stride and is a pretty laid back guy. He believes in karma, star signs and paying it forward.

His boss radioed him about a chemical spill in room 508 and he just arrived with his mop and bucket.

Thomas Parker

The pay isn't great, but at least the coffee is free and the hours are good. Thomas is a well-known face around the laboratories as he guides groups of people . He conducts the tour almost on autopilot, he has been doing it for so long. His friendly "work persona" hides a bitter and sarcastic individual.

When Thomas realized that one of the tour group is missing, he immediately contacted Cyrus and together they are searching for the missing person. He follows Cyrus into room 508 after they spotted Claire running into the room.
